What to Watch For

Signs:

In addition to road signs, runners should be aware of directional signs. Here are a few examples:

Start and Finish flags will let you know where to start and when you can finally rest.

Directional signs will have "CAUTION RUNNING RACE" message at top, with arrows pointing in the appropriate direction.

Running Hazards:

It is important to remember that although road races are on the pavement, slips, trips and falls are a potential hazard.

Watch out for:

- rocks and pebbles
- vehicles on the road
- directional signs
- debris on the road
- road guards/crossing guards
